

“What we are is God’s gift to us, what we become is our gift to God.” - Eleanor Powell

My mother loved this quote, and worked it in needlepoint a few times. It still hangs in my father’s house and reminds me of her every time I see it.

My version of this quote features the color purple for the One True King, and a trinity of flowers to represent the Holy Trinity, as well as a Cross. It’s 80 columns across and 8 rows wide, worked in flat peyote or brick stitch. The arrows mark every 10 rows/columns.

